MANY FORESEE INCREASE IN MOTOR TRAVEL

See Decrease in First 5 Months Blamed on Heavy Snowy Season.

MORE PUBLICITY BOOM FOR TOWN

If motor travel into Gettysburg maintains the same pace during the balance of the year as it has in May the number of visitors to this internationally famed national shrine will reach a new high since the peak year of 1927, according to close observers today.

From the local national park office comes official figures on transient travel into Gettysburg and the national park for the first five months of 1936.

Despite the severe winter weather that prevailed here during January, February and part of March, seriously retarding motor travel, the total number of visitors here during the first five months of this year is only 4,500 short of the number that came to Gettysburg during the same period last year.

In 1935, 130,909 visitors were officially counted by park officials from January 1 to May 31. During the same period this year 126,409 tourists were counted.

Snow Halts Travel

The decrease is attributed to the impassable conditions of many highways during the recent winter months. For instance, in January this year only 468 visitors were counted, compared with 1,068 during January, 1935. All forms of transportation were crippled for days this past winter which curtailed tourist travel here.

In February this year 420 tourists were on record here, compared with 976 in February, 1935. Last March also saw a decrease of more than 700 against the 6,104 recorded visitors in the same month, 1935. About 500 less visitors were here in April this year than in 1935.

However, May of this year reported an increase of almost 800 over May of 1935. This year the month of May brought 60,321 visitors, compared with 59,544 in May of 1935.

Last Sunday, June 21, the first day of summer and the longest day of the year, 6,554 visitors were counted on the Gettysburg battlefield, a new high for an average Sunday.

524,857 In 1935

For the balance of 1935 monthly figures were announced by Superintendent James R. McConaghie as follows:

June, 81,662.
July, 88,326.
August, 106,036.
September, 62,678.
October, 37,702.
November, 15,750.
December, 1,794.

The grand total for 1935 was given as 524,857.

This figure is the highest recorded here since 1927.

Local observers believe that this season will be an excellent season for tourist travel. They feel that the publication of 100,000 Pennsylvania map folders by the scenic and historic commission of the state, in which Gettysburg is given prominent recognition and an initial issue of 25,000 directory-folders, giving details of every community of any consequence in the state, will attract thousands of visitors to Pennsylvania and that Gettysburg, naturally, will receive its just quota.

The folders and maps are being distributed by motor clubs, hotels and civic organizations in every state in the Union.

The increased publicity for Gettysburg through the activities of the Pennsylvania state commission is also expected to attract many visitors. This publicity will continue through 1938, culminating with the observance of the 75th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg and the reunion of the Blue and Gray here in June and July of 1938.

LONGEST DAY OPENS SUMMER

Third Quarterly Season of Year Will Not Close Until September 23rd.

Although the summer season is credited with ending on September 21, this year it will officially end on September 23. It is on that day that the sun will reach its position directly over the equator on its annual trip southward.

There was 15 hours and eight minutes of sunlight on Sunday which was the beginning of summer. The sun rose at 4:32 a. m. and sunset occurred at 7:40 p. m. the longest day of the year.

The advent of summer finds the wheat harvest in Adams county in full swing. A few fields were cut last week but the greater part was not started until Monday and today. The wheat harvest is more than a week earlier than usual due mostly to the drought conditions existing here several weeks ago.

Rains Help Crops

Recent rains have caused rapid growth in oats and corn fields. Oats are already in head while corn is reported to be advancing nicely.

Practically the entire Adams county barley crop is in shock and has been stored in barns.

A fair hay crop is anticipated in view of the recent rains. Some hay has been harvested but the larger part still remains to be cut.

Two spots in Adams county where the harvest season will mean little this year are the East Berlin and the Seven Stars-Ortanna section. Both sections suffered total crop losses in severe hail storms which visited Adams county on Friday night, June 12.

Carlisle Presbytery Ousts Pastor of Middletown Church

Carlisle, Pa., June 23 (AP).—The Carlisle Presbytery meeting here Monday, suspended the Rev. Robert S. Marsden, pastor of the Middletown Presbyterian church, because of his espousal of the newly founded Fundamentalist Presbyterian church of America.

Mr. Marsden had submitted a request that he be classed by the presbytery, but suspension was voted instead when the Presbyterian delegates learned he had encouraged members of his congregation to follow him in leaving the parent church.

The minister's suspension is the first instance in Carlisle presbytery where action has been taken on a dissenter who has been aligned with the new faction headed by the Rev.

SHERIFF PLANS COUNTY POLICE

Adams County Officer Considers Force Now Operating In York County.

Pleased with the work of the eighteen county policemen under his command, Sheriff John Billet of York county talked with Sheriff B. W. Spence of Adams county Monday about the organization of a similar force in this county.

Sheriff Spence said today that he plans to confer later with Sheriff Billet about the matter. As he understands the plan, Sheriff Spence said that deputy sheriffs and constables of the county are uniformed and organized into a group to patrol all parts of the county as a crime prevention measure as well as for the purpose of arresting law-breakers. Besides checking traffic law violators, the officers on night patrol have been successful in checking chicken thefts, it was stated.

Sheriff Billet has announced that he is going to continue conducting his safety drive against drunken drivers in order to curb the large number of accidents in his county and the loss of life and property throughout the year. Similar activities would be undertaken by the sheriff's force in this county if a force of county officers is formed.

Gettysburg Invitation Extended to State Encampment in Williamsport.

REV. L. B. HAFER EXTENDS OFFER

Gettysburg's invitation to the Pennsylvania department of the Grand Army of the Republic to hold the 1937 and 1938 encampments in this historic community was extended today to the opening business session in Williamsport.

The Rev. L. B. Hafer, a member of the local camp Sons of Union veterans, extended the following invitation:

To the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic and Allied Organizations:

Gentlemen:

Gettysburg camp No. 112, S. U. V. C. W., acting on behalf of Corporal Skelly post No. 9, G. A. R., as well as on its own behalf, hereby repeats the invitation heretofore extended to you to hold your annual encampments at Gettysburg for the years 1937 and 1938.

In this invitation the community in general joins us, as is evidenced by the letter from the Chamber of Commerce of Gettysburg accompanying this invitation.

We take it as a matter of course that the encampments will be held at Gettysburg in 1938, as that is the year in which a notable observance of the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg will be held here, in which both the state and national governments are cooperating, and which has the direct endorsement of both the Blue and the Grey veterans.

But we feel that Gettysburg is the most appropriate and convenient rallying place for the survivors of the G. A. R. while they are able to continue holding encampments, and we urge you to select Gettysburg for your 1937 meetings, as well as the following year.

We assure you we will do our best to make the meetings here pleasant and profitable.

Trusting that you will accept our invitation we are with great respect and appreciation

Gettysburg's Board Of Health Condemns Jere Plank Property

Owner Is Directed to Have Property Vacated In Sixty Days; Says He Is Willing to Make Some Repairs, But Board Does Not Consider Remodeling Sufficient.

ASKS $5,000 FOR STRUCTURE WHICH IS ASSESSED AT $1,000

Sitting in special session with Clarence W. Epley, president of the borough council, and James B. Aumen, county fire marshal, the Gettysburg board of health, Monday evening, acted with dispatch for the abatement of three "health menaces" called to their attention in a letter from Mr. Epley.

Action taken by the board Monday evening included: Instructions to the borough health officer to order the vacation of two stables, owned by Jere Plank, Race Horse alley, within a period of 60 days. This action was taken after the board had condemned the structures as fire-traps and labelled one building as "unfit for human habitation."

Decision to proceed with enforcement of the borough ordinance outlawing outdoor toilets after a thorough survey by the borough health officer.

Orders to three members of the health board to "advise," Morris Gitlin, junk dealer, to cover sections of his junk yard in the rear of the first block of Carlisle street on which old tires are stored, as a control measure in mosquito eradication in the borough.

Renewal of the board's insistence on rigid regulations of milk, ice cream, meats and other foodstuffs being sold in the borough after Dr. E. D. Hudson, a member of the board, told the group that Gettysburg is a "dumping ground" for products that cannot be sold in neighboring cities.

PUSH WORK ON SEWER PROJECT

Twenty Men Are Laying Terra Cotta Pipe for Fourth Street Sewer Line.

Work is progressing on the Fourth street sewer project, where WPA labor is laying 1,120 feet of terra cotta pipe. By noon today 125 feet of pipe had been placed and it was expected by the time the men finished work this afternoon the total amount of pipe laid would be 150 feet.

Weather permitting, this week will be the first since the project was opened June 10 that the men will work the prescribed three days of eight hours each. The first week they worked only on Wednesday, the day the project was started. Last week the men worked Monday and Wednesday, and reported for work again this Monday morning.

Twenty men reported this morning. Twenty-five had been assigned to the project, but only 15 reported when the project opened. Additional assignments of labor have been made to bring the force up to the quota. Labor costs are being borne by the federal government. The government has set aside $3,240.20 to be paid to labor on this project, which is scheduled to run for eight weeks.

Deep Excavation

LeRoy H. Winebrenner, borough engineer, who is supervising the laying of the pipe, said this morning that progress will be slowed by reason of the need for excavation to a depth of eleven feet for some distance. Where the ditch was first Ray Kump, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kump, Cashtown, observed his sixth birthday anniversary Monday.

Pledges Support

Prompt action was promised on every matter on which the board took action. Mr. Epley promised the support of the borough police and the close cooperation of town council. Mr. Epley indicated that he will act promptly to bring the matter of regulating the purity and quality of milk and other raw foodstuffs being "dumped" in this borough before town council. He asked for and received a copy of the regulations proposed by Doctor Hudson a year ago that were presented to the retiring council and not acted upon.

All members of the board of health were in attendance at the meeting which was held in the office of William L. Meals, Esq., center square. The members are Mr. Meals, president; Dr. E. D. Hudson, Dr. R. W. Gifford, Erie R. Dardoff, secretary; Daniel B. King and Samuel Rhine.

Before calling the meeting to order, the board sent for copies of borough ordinances covering health matters and read the ordinances providing for the elimination of outdoor toilets by May 1, 1936, and for the covering of dead animals while being transported through the borough. The former ordinance carries a penalty of $10 fine or 10 days in jail for each day the ordinance is being violated and the second ordinance provides for a fine of $15 or 15 days.

Mr. Meals then read a letter from President Epley of town council to Doctor Hudson listing the three health menaces in the borough that had been called to the attention of the council. The letter placed the responsibility for the removal of health menaces in the borough upon the board of health and calls attention to the state law giving the board authority to cause abatement of nuisances and health menaces. The letter asked "prompt and effective action."

The meeting opened with a statement by Doctor Hudson that he believed the letter from Mr. Epley merited the consideration of the board. Doctor Hudson then told of an interview he had Monday with Jere Plank, owner of the Race Horse alley properties, in which he quoted Plank as saying he is willing to remodel the building if the tenants will vacate and that "he would appreciate help in forcing them to leave." Doctor Hudson said that Plank had stated that the stables used to quarter cattle are rented by L. G. Riggall. Four families tenant the other structure. Doctor Hudson said that Plank asks $5,000 for the properties that are assessed at $1,000, resulting in an annual tax bill of $39.50 to Mr. Plank.

Called "Fire-Trap"

"It is unjust and unfair to the other residents and taxpayers of the borough for the board of health to sit idly by and do nothing about conditions in Race Horse alley," Doctor Hudson declared

FARLEY OPENS '36 CONVENTION OF DEMOCRATS

Militant Answer Expected for All Challenges; Worry Over Tickets.

Philadelphia, June 23 (AP).—The democratic convention took off today for renomination of Roosevelt and Garner in a starting session abuzz with everything but business.

From the moment of the first call to order at 12:01 p. m. it was clear that the controlling administration leaders were to give militant answer to the challenges coming from right and left for the campaign ahead.

The first rallying oratorical flourish was from the party's national chairman, James A. Farley, who was set in the role of preliminary keynote.

A few leaders talked platform behind locked doors downtown, a few southerners still hunted for ways to preserve the two-thirds nominating rule—but the only apparent worries for the great majority were ticket worries.

A Roosevelt Show

Outwardly, at least, it was an all-Roosevelt show. But underneath ran the inevitable tide of speculation about the intention of those who have refused to go along. Among other things many delegates wondered whether Al. Smith would take up for John Hamilton, the republican chairman, on his implied invitation today to join the Landon-Knox campaigners.

The probable scope of the platform gave a slight touch of suspense to the proceedings which otherwise had little in common with the party combats of the past. When finally Senator Robert Wagner, of New York, turned up with the presidential draft, he offered no information to dispel the mass of contradictory rumors about monetary, farm and constitutional planks.

That it would be a Roosevelt platform was a foregone conclusion, and the renomination of Vice President Garner was regarded by most as fully as certain as the president's own.

opened at the Tiber, it was necessary to dig to a depth of only three or four feet, but now as the workmen make their way toward the railroad the amount of excavation increases.

A total of 770 yards of earth must be excavated to make way for the 1,120 feet of sewer pipe. Two manholes will be placed. It will be several weeks before the pipe has reached the railroad, where the line will turn east to the Edward Stahl property and then along the alley to join the main sewer.

The sewer project was originally combined with another measure that provided for the extension of East Lincoln avenue, East Water street and North Fourth street to their intersections. The sewer and street building projects were later separated and the laying of the sewer lines undertaken preliminary to the street grading work.

FRENCH TROOPS SENT TO REICH FRONTIER LINE

Sailors Strike and Raise Red Flags; Clash With Police Continues.

Paris, June 23 (AP).—The French government ordered heavy troop reinforcements sent to the German frontier, sources close to the ministry of war said Monday night.

More than 30,000 soldiers, it was authoritatively estimated, will be moved up to the north and east borders following a decision by Eduard Daladier, minister of national defense, to reinforce the 100,000 troops already there.

The move includes the creation of a new division of north African troops and the strengthening of other divisions with extra regiments and battalions.

To Cover Whole Border

The new troops will be stationed at points forming a line stretching between the Belgian and Swiss borders.

A regiment of Moroccan riflemen will be moved from Fez, Morocco, to Metz and Thionville.

Other points receiving reinforcements include Queney, Maubeuge, Sedan, Longuey, Mezieres, Saint-Avoid, Sarreguemines, Obergersheim, Wissembourg, Nancy, Strasbourg and Mulhouse.

Meanwhile red flags flew over ships in Marseille harbor when sailors struck. Rightists clashed with police and Leftists here for the third successive day.

Sailors aboard French ships in Marseille signaled the first walk-out by running up the red banners; then they forcibly prevented officers from obeying owners' instructions to remove the flags.

The walkout affected fifty ships. Several hundred passengers who were ready to sail on three liners for Mediterranean ports went ashore, but the sailors refused to move their baggage.

Only Two Hotels Open

The passengers suffered further discomfort because of a hotel strike which left only two establishments open. Many sought to spend the night in private homes.

Sailors struck, occupying the ships, when the owners asked for time to consider union demands of a forty-hour week.

Most officers left the ships when their orders to lower the red flags were disobeyed, warning the sailors they assumed "grave responsibilities."

The shipowners' association telegraphed a protest to the government against the occupation of the ships "under the sign of the red flag."

Decision to ask Mr. Gitlin to cover tiers in his junk yard came after a long discussion in which Dr. Hudson suggested that a petition be circulated among residents of that section of town on which they would have an opportunity to state their attitude on the presence and continuance of the yard. Several members of the board said they believe the junk yard is kept reasonably clean and that the chief objection is that it serves as a breeding place for mosquitoes. Mr. Epley said that council's only interest in the yard is to "get the water out of those tiers" to remove a breeding place for mosquitoes.

Mr. King said that Mr. Gitlin had told him of plans to erect a roof over the old auto tires in his yard as soon as he is financially able. Mr. Epley's plans for the collection of garbage by the municipality in tight, sanitary containers. Doctor Gifford suggested thorough clean-ups more frequently than twice a year and suggested that some method be found to encourage general cleaning of premises in the town.

The question of regulating the purity and quality of milk, ice cream, meats and other food stuffs being peddled without supervision here was raised by Doctor Hudson who cited instances of which he had personal knowledge where milk, rejected in Hanover, had been sent to Gettysburg for consumption.

Regulations he proposed last year provided for issuance of permits by the borough health board after thorough inspection had established the sanitation and freedom from disease of the property and persons handling the foods to be offered for sale here. Mr. Epley promised that the matter will be brought before council at once.

Mr. Epley and other members of the board agreed with Doctor Hudson's statement that "these matters of enforcing inspection of purity and quality of foods sold here are the most important we have considered this evening."

The board asked Mr. Epley to order borough police to enforce the ordinance that prohibits the transportation of dead animals through the town without being properly covered.

A closer contact was forecast between council and the board of health as the meeting adjourned with what was described as "a complete understanding on health matters in the borough."

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

SYNOPSIS: Inspector Hylton from Scotland Yard, and Sergeant White are about to begin an inspection of old Arthur Burdett's house at Hope Enderton, guided by Burdett's unrepentant manservant. The occasion for the inspection is the murder of Burdett, and the curious fact about the murder is that almost everybody in the village is secretly rather relieved that the old miser has been done in. The house is large, but mostly unused, and the atmosphere is eerie.

CHAPTER 10 COLD BLAST

Enderton Court was built in the mid period of Victorian industrialism. 1840 saw the foundations dug, a year and a half later the place was finished. It was a multiplicity of rooms and great lengths of cheerless corridor, which possibly did not matter so much in the days when servants were cheap and plentiful.

Such a place needs life and plenty of it, if it is to be at all bearable, and for half a generation Enderton Court had known little enough life. In one corner of it a savage, inward-eating spirit had sat jealously huddled over an occasional spark of begrudged fire, and somewhere in the outer regions a servant or two had passed a cold and comfortless existence; for the rest its big rooms were sheeted and silent.

It looked doubly deserted now as the three men made their way about. Even Inspector Hylton felt a certain eeriness from that damp, deserted mausoleum.

They inspected the ground floor thoroughly.

"Even a house agent would have a job to describe this in glowing terms," was Hylton's comment; "now what about the upstairs?"

"This way, Mister," Lumsdale said briefly, leading the way up the fine wide staircase.

"This is where the old man slept, and my room's three doors along."

Inspection was duly made of two bedrooms, which Hylton privately thought must be as bleak and uninviting as ever any human beings slept in.

"And the other rooms?" he queried.

All empty. Bits of furniture in some of 'em; old boxes and the like, but for the most part empty.

"Well, we'll poke our heads in," the Inspector said cheerily, and they duly poked their heads in to find only too dismal a verification of Lumsdale's account.

"Can't say I altogether blame you for not falling in love with the place," was Hylton's comment.

"This part's all right," Lumsdale said. "We can go in the other wing if you've a mind."

"I've a mind to everything," Hylton assured him. "That's my one besetting sin in life—curiosity. Which way?"

"This way, Mister," Lumsdale led them down a long corridor which turned sharply to the right at its end. "This is where all the servants used to sleep when the house was full like, I suppose."

"Anything interesting here?"

"Nothing as I've ever heard of, Mister."

Kingsley Hylton was last out of the third bleak bedroom they visited and for a moment, the Sergeant with the lantern being down the corridor, was virtually in darkness.

"Hallo," he cried sharply, "who's opened a window?"

"Neither of the men ahead seemed to hear him. 'Who's opened a window?' he called out more loudly, and there seemed to be a sort of sardonic satisfaction in the voice that floated back. "No windows been opened here for long enough."

It was an assurance that did not satisfy the Inspector. "Fetch the lamp back and let's have a look," he ordered, and the three men made a silently thorough inspection of all the windows they could find. All were fastened, many shuttered.

"Why, did your hear something Inspector?" Sergeant White asked.

"No, I didn't hear anything," Hylton answered. "I just wondered." He caught sight for an instant of the grin on Lumsdale's queer face, and not for anything would he have added that for a brief space, ten seconds or more maybe, as he had stood alone in the darkness, he had felt across his cheek a chill, damp blast of air.

"Anything else you want to see?" Lumsdale asked when they regained the hall.

"No, I don't think so. Not at present. When's the inquest, Sergeant?"

"Friday morning, Inspector."

"Um. We shall see what that brings out."

"I can tell you that now, Mister," Lumsdale said, a trifle unexpectedly. "Nothing."

A considerable experience of inquests inclined Kingsley Hylton privately to agree with this monosyllabic prophecy, but he did not say so; instead he said,

"Just tell me about that chain on the front door, Lumsdale, I'm not quite clear about that."

"Simple enough. Whenever I went out and old Burdett was alone all the back was shut up and locked, like I've told you. I had to see to that. Then after I'd gone and banged the front door behind me, the old boy put the chain up."

"Was it on when you came back?"

"Last Monday night d'you mean?"

"No, any ordinary night."

"Yes, I'd ring the bell and the old man would come shuffling over the hall with a candle and open the door two or three inches. Then when he saw who it was, he'd let me in, mostly without a word, and I'd have to put the chain up again after me."

"Now, last Monday night when you went down to fetch Sergeant White, which way did you go out?"

"I front."

"Was the chain in place or not?"

"No, I noticed that particular."

"Um, I see. Well, I don't think we need worry you any more tonight. We shall be up in the morning of course, Good night."

"Night."

The Inspector found the sharp, frosty night air pleasant after the shuttered dampness of Enderton Court. He was cold and wanted exercise; Sergeant White seemed to be of the same mind and they swung along steadily, for the most part in silence.

Once Hylton said, breaking a long silence. "Do you believe in ghosts, Sergeant?"

"Yes sir."

"You do?"

"I've never seen any convincing proof that there aren't any."

"Have you ever seen any convincing proof that two and two make four?"

"Mr. Einstein isn't so sure they do, is he sir?"

Hylton laughed. "Well," he said, "I've never heard of a murder committed by a ghost before. What would you say, Sergeant, if it turned out along those lines?"

"It's something I wouldn't care to be mixed up in," James White answered quietly.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THE SIGNIFICANT

I READ the review of three books recently in the New York Times in which the reviewer spoke of one of them as being "the most significant," yet "the least successful" and of "the least significant the most successful."

I haven't been able to get that description out of my mind. I have thought a great deal about it. How like life—thesignificant taking a back seat—neglected and overlooked—the insignificant taking the front of the procession!

The "best sellers" are frequently not the best books! Butler's "The Way of All Flesh" was not a first seller nor a best seller. It had to wait 15 years for its second edition! Arnold Bennett wrote one of the world's really great books in "The Old Wives' Tale"—yet it got a cold reception at the start. George Gissing's lovely book "The Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft," also gained few readers at its publication, and the author himself remarked that many praised it—but few bought it!

Lincoln's immortal speech at Gettysburg was laughed at, and newspapers both in England and the United States spoke of it as insignificant and unworthy of a President and of so great an occasion—yet how time has proved its deathless significance!

The mob crucifies—but "The Muse of History" returns to gather up the sacred embers of the fire and the splinters of the cross, to place in memory's golden urn.

The seemingly insignificant all too often proves to be the truly significant.

Each day we pass by greatness. Often only in death does it loom in all its glorious significance!

Applause is a trick device, the acclaim of the multitude but a remembered echo upon the morrow. Idols crumble. Popularity is a whim, success a sneering skeleton! Character alone is significant and immortal.

Beneath each note of the plaintive nightingale may be sensed the whisper of angels!

WAR VETERANS
BATTLE POLICE

Mobile Guards of Paris
Called to Suppress Parade
Of Croix de Feu.

Paris, June 23 (AP). — Several thousand members of the rightest war veterans' organization, Croix de Feu, fought police and Mobile guards Sunday who attempted to prevent them from parading.

The veterans had been ordered to demonstrate in a protest against the leftist government of Premier Leon Blum by their chief, Col. Francois de la Rocque.

Rightists formed a line of march at the Arch of Triumph and started toward the place De la Concorde, crying, "Long live De la Rocque."

Battle Hand-to-Hand

They refused to heed a police warning to disperse and truckloads of Mobile guards were rushed to reinforce police. Hand-to-hand fighting lasted nearly half an hour.

Although none was reported seriously injured a score of arrests was made.

De la Rocque and other nationalists leaders called upon their followers to unfurl the tricolor of France in a symbolic protest against "revolution and the attempted dictatorship by the minority."

Shouts of "Down with Blum, down with the Jews" roared above the tumult as the Croix de Feu members battled the police in the Champs Elysees.

Fights in Provinces

Scuffles also were reported in several provincials including Caen, Mulhouse and Amiens.

Roger Salengro, minister of the interior, announced "there was no display of the tricolor" in eight departments in France, but admitted there was a "very restrained" display in three others.

Hundreds were flown from balconies, windows and taxicabs of Paris. There were similar displays at Marseille, Bordeaux and elsewhere in the provinces.

The demonstration coincided with an intensification of the government's campaign to dissolve rightist leagues.

To Suppress All Assemblies

After a conference with Premier Blum and other ministers, Salengro directed new instructions to police urging a stricter surveillance of rightist meeting places and the suppression of all assemblies and demonstrations.

Colonel de la Rocque asserted:
"The Croix de Feu movement learns from certain sources a provocative plot has been organized, leading to grave events in Paris and the provinces for which it is to be blamed."

He directed his followers to remain at their homes to await further orders.

Garagemen Gain

out an even dozen. Kitzmiller featured with three safeties.

UNION STOCK YARDS
The week's supply of live stock included 950 cattle, 650 calves, 900 hogs and 3,000 sheep.

Cattle—The cattle supply, which was of slightly increased volume, included a little larger percentage of cows and relatively fewer steers. However, there was very little change in grades of the various classes. Trade developed slowly with steers selling along a steady to weak basis, but cows which were in larger supply worked weak on a weak basis. Bulls were about steady.

Most of the steers were medium and good grades that sold at $7.75a$15.5a short load of yearlings making the $8.15 price, while another load of lightweight steers brought $8.65. A small lot of good grade heavy steers went at $8.25. Several small lots of lightweights sold at $8.25a$15.5a. Several lots of common and medium grade steers cashed at $6.50a$7.25, a few lots of plain lightweight stock steers sold at $6a$7.5a. Several lots of common and medium grade heifers sold at $5.50a$7.25; several lots of grassers, $6a$7.5a. Most of the common and medium grade cows turned at $4.50a$5.50; a few head of good cows at $5.75; most of the low cutters and cutters at $3.75a$4.25; a few light shaggy kinds sold at $3.50. Common and medium grade bulls brought $3.25a$5.25, a few good beef bulls upward to $7.

Calves—The early trade developed in the hog division. Most interests operated at 10c higher than last week's close, but some sales at 20c. The close of last week. Trade became slow, however, on closing rounds and part of the early advance had disappeared. Good and choice vealers brought $9 to mostly $9.50. Common and medium grades went at $6.50a$8.50; culls down to $5.50.

Hogs—An even trade developed in the hog division. Most interests operated at 10c higher than last week's close, but some sales at 20c. The close of last week. Trade became slow, however, on closing rounds and part of the early advance had disappeared. Good and choice vealers brought $9 to mostly $9.50. Common and medium grades went at $6.50a$8.50; culls down to $5.50.

Trading was moderately active in the sheep division with prices on lambs and ewes averaging around steady with the close of last week. Good and choice grade ewe and wether ewing lambs cashed at $11.50a$12.50; principally the better lots of ram lambs made the top price, while most lots of good grade trucks went at $11.50. A few lots of medium to good grades mixed brought $11.25. Fat buck lambs were discounted $7 per hundredweight. Common and medium grade lambs sold at $9a$10.50; some culls at $7a$8. A few good and choice grade slaughter ewes sold at $3a$4; culls down to $1.50.

2 BRITONS DIE IN ARAB SCRAP

Many Others Reported to Have Lost Lives When Troops Are Ambushed.

Jerusalem, June 23 (AP).—Two British soldiers and ten Arabs were killed Sunday afternoon in a battle near Tulkarem when the soldiers were ambushed by an Arab band.
(The Palcor agency reported from Jerusalem that between twenty and forty Arabs were slain in addition to the soldiers.)
One of the British dead was Sergeant Henry Sills, the other a private.
A British convoy of troops were rolling along the Haifa-Tel Aviv road at Anabta with a fleet of trucks when the Arab attack occurred.
Sills fell early in the fighting and a number of Arabs dragged his body with them into a cave. The British bombed the cave and the Arabs sought shelter elsewhere.
British planes and reinforcements of troops were called into action from Tulkarem. Until they arrived the Arabs were holding their own in the fighting.
Three of the planes were nicked
by Arab bullets.
The battle began at 11 in the morning and lasted until dusk when the raiders retired to the hills.
Planes Take Part
Three battalions of troops and four planes took part in the encounter, the most serious since rebellion flared in Palestine.
The Arabs held the British at bay until the arrival of the planes.
Machine gun fire from the planes split the frenzied raiders into two sections. The troops were then able to encircle and rout them.
As soon as the fighting had ceased the planes landed and picked up the British wounded and rushed them to a hospital.
Cary Grant, screen actor, ran away from his English home at 15 to join a company of acrobats.

Late Flashes

Planning Board
Bill Is Passed

Harrisburg, June 23 (AP).—The democratic majority of the House smothered republican opposition today to pass a bill setting up a nine-man state planning board to draft a "master plan" for the development of Pennsylvania resources.
The vote, strictly on party lines, was 108 to 76. John T. Stewart, Indiana republican, led the uprising against the proposal, arguing it was "unnecessary at this time" and questioning whether it was within the scope of Governor Earle's call for the special session.

WOMAN ADMITS SHOOTING MATE

40-Year-Old Mother of Five Children Is Held in Towson (Maryland) Jail.

Baltimore, June 23.—Charged with murdering her husband, Hollis M.
Almony, 39-year-old farmer, at their home in Parkton, Baltimore county, Mrs. Mary L. Almony, 40, was held in the Towson jail Monday night while authorities planned an inquest this evening into her husband's death.
The inquiry will be held by Magistrate T. Walter Allen, of Cockeysville, acting coroner. In the meantime, attorneys for Mrs. Almony, a former Baltimore county school teacher, announced they would try to have her released on bail today.
Her trial cannot begin before September.
Displays Black Eye
Exhibiting a blackened eye and facial cuts, Mrs. Almony, mother of five children, was said by police to have told them she killed Almony because he had beaten her, had threatened to shoot her and had said he would burn down their house.
FORMER LEGISLATOR DIES
Louis D. Crawford, 68, Thurmont, a former member of the Maryland assembly, died suddenly Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Charles Brown, Deerfield, Maryland. His widow, Edna Sheffer Crawford, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Norris Sheffer, formerly of Fairfield, and two daughters survive.
Funeral services Thursday morning at the Crawford home. Interment at Thurmont.

STRIKERS KILL PLANT GUARD

Portsmouth, Ohio, June 23 (AP).— Blazing gunfire killed a company guard and wounded four men in fierce rioting today at the strike-closed Portsmouth works of the Wheeling steel corporation.
Set off by an attempt of the company to move food into one of its picket-besieged plants, bullets raked three blocks along West street in New Boston, location of the corporation's giant plant, endangering women and children.
Sheriff Arthur Oakes read the riot act and ordered the streets of New Boston, two miles east, cleared.
He said about 75 strikers and sympathizers engaged a dozen company guards in the brief, but intent, gun fight in which between 200 and 300 shots were fired—the first major outbreak of violence since a strike closed the plant May 22.
George Meyers, about 38, a company guard, was killed.
The sheriff declared the shooting was premeditated and that residents in the vicinity of where the company tried to transport the food, by using a locomotive hauling a flatcar, had been warned to get out of danger.
When the locomotive, manned by company guards, started across West street it was met by a stream of bullets from pistols and rifles.
Oakes asserted the guards were ambushed by gunmen hidden in a string of empty box cars on a siding.
